

Doors open at 9. Scan the lanyard, tap We're here, and the day runs itself.

Hello, and thank you for entering. I'm Matt Walker, chief arbiter on Sunday. This page is everything you need: where to be, when, what happens at the door, and how to follow your child's games on your phone during the day. Please read it tonight so Sunday morning is calm.

Sunday's timetable

09:00	Doors open at the village hall, Long Ashton Community Centre, BS41 9DP.
09:40	Check-in closes. Anyone not checked in misses round 1.
09:50	Briefing in the village hall, everyone. Then players walk to the pavilion.
10:00	Round 1
11:15	Round 2
12:30	Round 3
13:30	Lunch, 45 minutes
14:15	Round 4
15:30	Round 5
16:45	Round 6
17:45	Prize-giving in the village hall.
18:00	Home

Rounds start on the arbiter's call, not the clock. If games finish early we may bring rounds 5 and 6 forward by ten or fifteen minutes, so stay close after lunch.

When you arrive

- 1 A helper at the door hands you your child's lanyard. The colour band is their section.
- 2 Scan the small square code on it with your phone. Your child's page opens.
- 3 Tap the yellow We're here button, then Submit. That's check-in done, and there's no queue.
- 4 Lanyard on. Games are in the pavilion next door; parents stay in the village hall.

No smartphone, or the code won't scan? Tell the helper at the door and they'll check you in.

Follow the day on your phone

factandstory.github.io/blundr-live

Pick your child once and the page follows them all day: board number, colour, opponent, result, points and place, plus the next-round time and messages from the desk. Results appear a minute or two after the arbiter enters them at the board.

Parking

The centre's car park is on Keedwell Hill, just past the doctors' surgery. If it's full, park on the surrounding roads or at Theynes Croft public car park, off Long Ashton Road, BS41 9NA, ten minutes' walk.

Lunch

Lunch is available to buy in the village hall: sandwiches, cakes, fruit, teas and coffees. Card or cash.

What to bring

- A water bottle for the pavilion.
- A warm layer for the walk between buildings.
- Something quiet for between rounds.

During play

- No parents in the pavilion while games are on. Parents stay in the village hall for every round, with the big screen showing pairings, results and the next-round time. Children come back to you between rounds.
- No phones in the pavilion. Players leave phones and smartwatches with you before each round.
- Quiet around the pavilion, please, even between rounds. Younger children are still playing.
- Players: if anything is wrong at the board, put your hand up and wait. An arbiter will come. Never argue with your opponent, and never ask a parent.
- Arbiters cannot say whether a position is checkmate. Players need to work that out themselves.

Rules at the board

- Six rounds of rapid chess. 20 minutes each, plus 10 seconds added every move.
- Touch a piece and you move it. Let go and the move is made.
- Illegal move: first time, a warning and a blue counter goes next to your clock. Second time, two minutes added to your opponent's clock. Third time, the game is lost. The count resets every game.
- Results are entered by the arbiter at the board. Shake hands, wait for the arbiter, then reset the pieces.
- Odd number of players in a section means one child sits out each round. That child scores a full point. The pairing program chooses who, and nobody sits out twice.

Golden Tickets to London

This is a qualifier for the London Junior Chess Championships. Score enough points out of six and your child earns a place in the finals in December. The LJCC sets the pass marks.

4 of 6

U8: the U8 Final

3½ or 4

U10 and U12: Minor final

4½+

U10 and U12: Major final

Qualifying doesn't enter your child automatically. We send the results to the LJCC and you then register at ljcc.co.uk. A child who qualifies for the Major cannot play the Minor.

One thing we need from you: your child's ECF rating code

We submit Sunday's games to the English Chess Federation so they count towards your child's rating. For that, every player needs an ECF code, which looks like 123456A. If your child has one, please reply to this email with it. If they don't have one, or you're not sure, reply and say so. We already have codes for 26 of the 46 players; twenty are still missing one, and a reply either way saves us chasing on the day.

Every player goes home with a printed London Junior Chess Championships certificate for playing in a qualifying event; collect it from the certificate tables in the village hall any time during the day. A Blundr certificate of their day, with every opponent and every result, follows by email in the week after. The official record of pairings and results is the event page on Tornelo: tornelo.com/chess/orgs/blundr/events/bristol-junior-open. If our live page and Tornelo ever disagree, Tornelo is right. Questions before Sunday: reply to this email or call me. On the day, the arbiters' desk is in the pavilion and the check-in desk is in the village hall.
